

Beef Prices Cause Concern

Somehow, it just doesn't seem right. For weeks upon weeks now, cattle prices have shifted restlessly around the fifty cents per pound mark.

Sept. 12 promises to be a day in Agricultural History long to be remembered by millions of agriculturalists and a day dreaded by so many, many consumers.

It all started several months ago when several protesting housewives started picketing beef prices. They thought that their little scandal would bring prices down. How they howled when beef prices took the opposite direction and rose, full speed ahead.

Farmers' were enjoying their little raise in prices, especially since they hadn't risen with labor, food, and other things in several years. Then came the price freeze, and then the lifting of price controls on some items.

Deep freezes have hit record sales.

Panic stricken housewives have fled to their super market and have hoarded beef.

Sec. of Agriculture, Earl Butz has pleaded to have the freeze lifted before Sept. 12.

Why, if most items have no price controls must beef remain constant?

Sept. 12 is passed the freeze bets lifted; beef prices have zoomed to record highs, thousands of over-held, prime cattle are stuffed, and cramed into the holding pens at the markets.

Slaughter houses are working around the clock butchering and processing their overabundance of beef.

By Sept. 19 beef prices will fall from their high precipices and tumbled to tragic lows.

Again, cattle are held, meat is scarce, and after the supply runs out the prices will go back up, around Oct. 15 at the latest.

Beef will then remain high.

There is no shortage of beef, you can buy all that you want on Black Markets. (And there are plenty of them, even in the Rensselaer area.)

Farmers owe complaining housewives a vote of thanks for their long-deserved and needed prices.

STUDENTS EXPRESS MODULAR OPINIONS

Mrs Linback

By Cindy Fear

Where was Mrs. Linback? Mrs. Linback has been struggling to regain her good health.

This summer, apparently a wood tick bit Mrs. Linback, giving her Rocky Mountain Fever. She spent a week in the hospital in serious condition and a lot of time at home, resting.

Mrs. Linback has been a librarian in our school for the past 2 or 3 years and we're glad to have her back in commission.

Kurtz and Shank

Be sure to listen to WRIN radio, 1560 on your dial, Tuesday through Friday between 7:30 and 8:00 for the best in high school news.

The announcers for this year are Bob Kurtz and Joe Shank, they will bring you the days' events along with other information concerning you as students. Anyone having news about clubs or information that they think the students or the public would be interested in listening to, please contact Bob Kurtz or Joe Shank by noon every Friday. Any information received after noon on Friday will not be announced.

DK: By the time you get settled in one class it's time to go to the next one.

Mr. Baumann: It gives the students a chance to take a better variety of subjects. It offers more sections giving a chance for smaller classes.

Choas

By Cindy Fear

No, Chaos. It seems that someone didn't know how to spell Chaos and made up all the yearbooks wrong.

Miss Plunkett, yearbook sponsor, sent them back but she doesn't know how long it will take to get them changed. She was hoping for 2 weeks but since it took ten days just in the mail, it may take longer.

Band

By David Walter

RCHS will have the largest marching band in its history this year.

This year the marching band is entertaining at home ball games five times. So far this year the band has been invited to St. Joe on September 22, and Indiana State University for their homecoming parade on October 13.

Last year the band ordered new uniforms to replace the old, dipalidated ones. The company said they would have them delivered to us by September. The way it looks now we will need to get our old uniforms out again. At least for the first home game.

Michael Marquess, the band director, says the band is doing very good. At this time the band id doing even better than last year.

The band has more sound and more people this year, 122 with the flag corps.

JT: I've tried it, I like it.

KS: I think it's better, because you can take 6 classes and still have free time.

JM: I think it's ok.

Mr. Carter: It gives more flexibility to scheduling. Cuts down boredom of long classes. It puts more responsibility on students to get to class. Paves the way to offering more classes.

RB: I think it's pretty tough. TF: I love it.

MM: I haven't had enough time to evaluate it.

JS: It would be ok if they wouldn't have messed up my schedule.

EC: I think it's too much running around. It makes the classes and day seem shorter; it breaks up the boredom of some classes.

LB: It's all right because you can take more classes.

SN: It's not the best, but it's better than nothing.

TH: I don't like it because it's too confusing and the classes are too short.

TT: You're not in study hall long enough to get anything done.

MS: We haven't been in it long enough to tell.

RW: It reeks.

RW: There are no bells. You have to keep looking at your schedule.

CA: I wish it had bells.

DM: I like it because they shortened the classes.

MP: I don't like it because every day we have every class 5 days a week.

DJ: We don't have enough time between classes.

BG: It's great when you have history and English for $\frac{1}{2}$ a period.

DN: I guess it's all right, except that there aren't any bells and the clocks in some of the rooms are screwed up; you don't know when to go to your next class.

JA: It's irrelevant to me which system we use.

JS: I think there's too much running around.

GD: I liked last year better. The lunch break is still too short. I like the lecture system. The study time isn't all in one place.

DT: I don't like it.

CS: It's better than the other one. We can take more classes and still have free time.

RB: I have more free time to study for some classes.

TL: I think it's really far out.

SM: I'm just getting used to it.

RH: It's all right, I guess.

RM: I hate it.

KW: It's a bunch of crap.

RA: It's spiffy.

MB: It's ok, I imagine I'll get used to it.

LB: I don't like it.

RM: I don't like it.

MH: It's ok.

CD: It's better than the old one.

JB: I don't like it; I like the old one better.

KC: We need bells. The other one was much better.

LG: I don't like it.

Mrs. Price: I think we need a little more time to evaluate whether it is working or not.

In the modular system, juniors and seniors, have a little more choice; in particular, with what to do during their free time.

Annual Broken Glass Problem

As this school year begins, a serious problem presents itself to those of us who drive to school each day, the problem being that of glass in the parking lot.

Broken glass is a hazard both to cars and to their drivers. However, we can put the blame for this on nobody but ourselves.

As this reporter was preparing to leave school the other day, I observed two bottles being heaved from a car leaving the parking lot. These bottles shattered, leaving broken glass scattered near the exit.

No names will be given, but I know who they are, and they know who they are, and I think that as high school students they should be above such childish behavior.

Thanks to such thoughtless persons, a fair amount of time, effort and money is spent each year in the cleaning up of the parking lot.

But what can be done to stop such acts? One plan would be to have the students who drive cars participate in the cleaning up of the parking lot. If these people had to clean up their mess maybe they wouldn't make one to start with.

Another plan might be to make the people who drive cars pay a small fee to help pay for the cleaning up of the parking lot. The less mess there is to clean up, the less money you will have to pay.

Something will be done to eliminate this menace of broken glass. Remember, think before you throw. D M

No Fans, No Team

What is one big asset to a cross country, track, golf, swimming, wrestling, football, basketball or to a baseball team? Fans, that's what it is.

Why do more people attend football games and basketball games? Isn't the cross country, track, golf, swimming, wrestling, and baseball teams just as important.

Or why is it that everybody thinks that football and basketball are more important? Is there really that much difference? I always thought that a team was a team, no matter how many athletes were on a team.

It seems like it's the same old thing every year. Well, did you win last night, what was the score, or how bad did you beat them and then they'll ask, were there many fans there. You'll always come up with an answer like this: "Yes, we won", and then they'll say "naw" there weren't too many people there.

This holds true for the golf team, the cross country, wrestling, track, swimming, baseball and this category would include, the basketball, and football teams.

Another question is, "Why are there so many that go to the basketball sectional instead of the regular season games? Why couldn't the same number of fans turn out for both the regular season games and the sectional? Sure the sectional is important but the regular season games are just as important too. If this is not true, then why should the basketball team along with other high school sports, which include the Girls' G.A.A. play regular season games. Why don't they just practice from the start of the season till the time of the sectional.

The teams in this high school need your support!! Give it to them, what they truly deserve!

Show them that you appreciate the hard work they have gone through to prepare for the rough season ahead of them. Wouldn't you want support too if you worked hard to get in shape for a season?

Please respond to editorial, if you so desire.

Modular System Is Controversial

When we returned to school at the end of our vacation, we found a new school schedule different from anything we have ever had before.

Supposedly, this system would allow us to take more classes and at the same time give us more study periods. Also, this system was to be carried on without benefit of the passing bells.

However, for the most part this modular system does not seem to have brought the desired affects. The majority of students do not seem to be taking more classes and since many classes do not meet for the same amount of time every day, this causes some confusion in regard to starting and ending times.

Also, since classes change every half-hour, it seems as though you spend half the day walking from one class to another.

While many of us do need the exercise aided by all this walking, we the staff of the Rensselaerian feel that the primary duty of the school is to educate, something which cannot possible be done while we are walking the halls.

Those 70-minute classes of last year may have been long and boring but at least after you left, you felt as though you had learned something.

Let's get rid of this all day gym class and back to our old system which was perfectly all right. Let's make school feel like school again. DM

C-SELM And The Army

For some time now, we have been hearing and reading about the Army Corps of Engineers proposed C-SELM plan.

Naturally, nearly everyone in this area is opposed to the plan. Since last year, more rallies and meetings have been held, petitions passed around, and letters of protest sent, than we can count.

However, most of the fighting over C-SELM seems to be done by those who oppose the plan. What can you think of that the Army Corps of Engineers has ever done to oppose those who are protesting their plan?

Could it be that C-SELM is not the Army's main plan? Who can say that some time in the future the Army won't suddenly come up with a new plan and say to us that if we don't like their C-SELM plan, then we must accept their second plan.

Now this is not to say that this will happen, but we can never be to sure. However, in my opinion, we should be on guard against just such a possibility. D M

Gridiron Review

By Greg Grow

This year's team consists of 11 returning lettermen. First on the list comes Bob Hilton. This will be Bob's 3rd year as a letterman. Bob is an outstanding defensive player. He is also one of the biggest players on the team.

Next comes Todd Soderstrom. Todd, also a 3rd year letterman will be playing his first year as a quarterback. Last year he was one of the leading ground gainers.

Ed Courtright, is starting his 3rd year as a letterman. He will be playing as a fullback and a running back. He is said to be a good short yardage man.

Dave Rose last of the 3rd year lettermen is going to be playing center because of injured Jeff Sayler who would be starting this year. Dave played guard on last year's squad.

Bill Braasch will be starting his second year as a letterman this year. He will be playing in the backfield this year as a running back. Bill made all conference last year and got an honorable mention for the All-State team as a tight end.

Greg DeWees also starting his 2nd year as a letterman will be starting at split end and defensive half back.

Craig Alson will be starting as an offensive guard and as a defensive tackle. He looked real good in pre-season practice.

Mike Williams will be playing defensive tackle and as a linebacker this year.

Chuck Anders came on late last year as a back but scored 2 touchdowns in his last game. He has picked up this year where he left off.

Ed Davisson will be starting his first year this year. He is said to be getting better every day.

Steve Mosby, who played fullback last year will, be starting as an offensive guard.

Roger Cook will be playing running back this year.

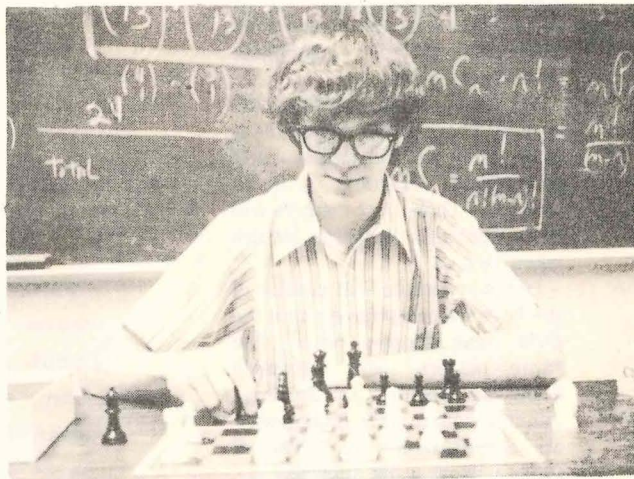

Jeff Sayler who was injured in preseason training is one of the strongest defensive and offensive linemen. The team and the coach would sure like to see him back on the line.

Two promising sophomores Steve Waymouth and Randy Snyder look real good so far in the pre-season training.

Coach Davisson says that the main problem could be the lack of depth if the team has a lot of injuries this year.

Davisson said that he was disappointed in the turnout for this year's team. He said that out of a school as large as ours we should have a lot more people out for the team. When you look around and see the teams around us with 40 kids on their squad and we have only 26, you can see what he means.

SENIOR SPOTLIGHT

Genius at Work

Busily contemplating his next move!

Mike Moosemiller who represented our school at the chess tournament in Valparaiso this summer has been chosen for our Senior male spotlight.

Mike has been playing chess for the past 3 years and this summer tied for first place in the tournament. His record was 3 wins and 1 draw. As president of the chess club, he'll be playing second board this year.

Besides chess, Mike's interest is the Honor Society, and he's majoring in Math and Science. He hopes to go to college and possibly major in engineering.

DRIVERS TRAINING DURING SCHOOL

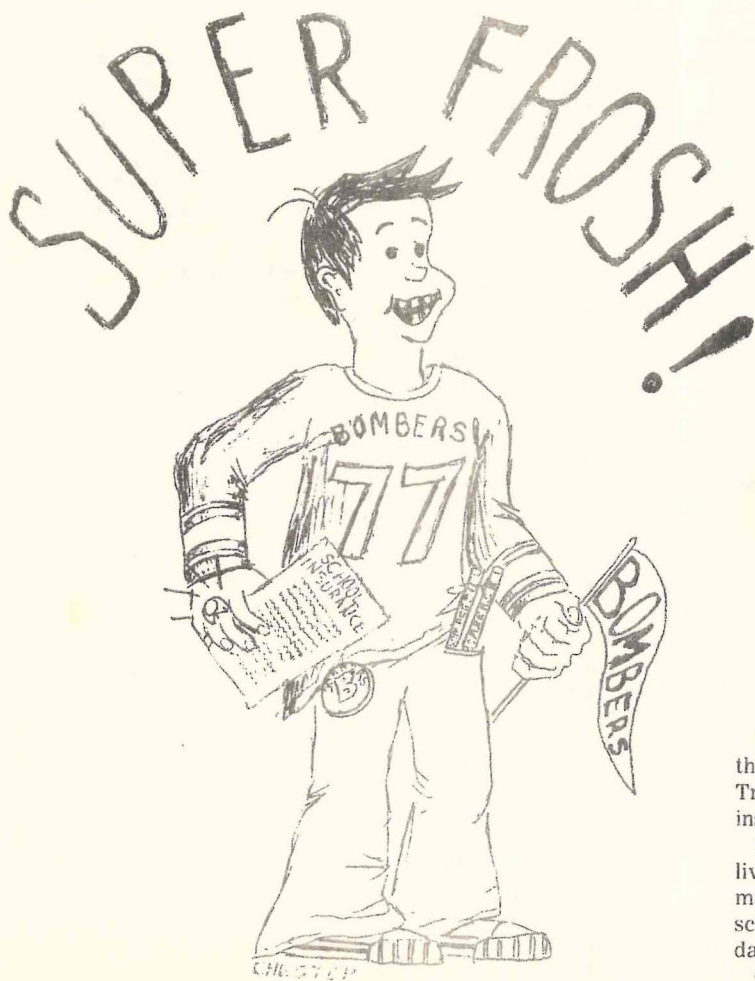

Parents are complaining that they should have the Drivers' Training class during school instead of after.

Many parents have students living out of town and have to make special trips to or back to school just to pick their son or daughter up after the class.

Other parents have to take off time from jobs or quit early to pick their son or daughter up unless they find a ride home from a friend or neighbor.

We, the staff, are hoping that the staff which had the schedule arranged would please arrange it so that Drivers' Training would be held during school.

STEELE SEES GREAT CHOIR

Mr. Steele RCHS Choir Director, believes that "this is the first time I've had the chance to select choraleers for the Advanced Choir." This means that the advanced choir will be excellent this year as each student is selected because of his or her singing talent.

The group consists of thirty-six people. There are 18 boys and 18 girls. They will sing all kinds of songs and selections will be difficult. Their first concert will be presented in the large lecture room Oct. 25.

Dress ensemble will consist of the boys wearing blazers and the girls wear dresses having the same pattern. The advanced choir is limited to Seniors, Juniors, and a few Sophmores. Mr. Steele thinks the Advanced Choir will be a big success.

WOUNDED WARRIORS

Randy Snyder and Bob Hilton, both starters on this years football team were injured in the teams first game at Monticello. Snyder may be lost for the entire season. While Hilton's condition is uncertain.

GAS SHORTAGE IS A HOAX

Do you want to pay 85c a gallon for gas? Of course not. But is there really a gas shortage?

According to Congressman Les Aspin (D-Wis.), in the September 9th issue of The National Enquirer, "more than 10 million gallons of gasoline were exported out of the U.S. in April and may despite the claim of growing gasoline shortages around the country."

Just think of how far you could go with 10 million gallons of gasoline. And if these companies can sell it overseas, what are we supposed to do?

There have been rumors that the gas shortage is just a tactic by big oil companies to put independent stations out of business. These rumors have always been hushed up in a hurry.

The main result of the gas shortage has been stations closing for the weekend. There have been no boycotts or demonstrations by the consumer.

Of course, we could look at the bright side. With less gas, there will be less pollution.

Death Takes Bruce Lee

The death of T.V. celebrity Bruce Lee was probably caused by marijuana or hashish poisoning.

Lee, a black belt kung fu expert, appeared on T.V. shows "The Green Hornet", and "Here Come the Brides", and has appeared in movies such as "The First of Fury", "The Chinese Connection" and the recently released movie, "Enter The Dragon".

Lee, also taught Karate to actors: James Coburn, and James Garner.

Psalm 23

'King Heroin'

"King Heroin is my shepherd, I shall always want..."

"These tragic words, part of a twisted rewording of the beloved 23rd Psalm, were discovered recently in Reidsville, N.C., in a closed car alongside a dead heroin addict. She was 23 years old.

"Her death was ruled a suicide. A hookup with the car's exhaust had sent carbon monoxide fumes from a running motor into the vehicle. Here's the complete 'Psalm.'

"King Heroin is my shepherd. I shall always want. He maketh me to lie down in the gutters.

"He leadeth me besides the troubled water. He destroyeth my soul.

"He leadeth me in the paths of wickedness.

"Yea, I shall walk thru the valley of poverty and will fear no evil for thou, Heroin, are with me.

"Thy Needle and Capsule comfort me. Thou strippest the table of groceries in the presence of my family. Thou robbest my head of reason.

"My cup of sorrow runneth over. Surely heroin addiction shall stalk me all the days of my life and I will dwell in the House of the Damned forever."

Today I read the revised 23rd Psalm, "King Heroin," written by that girl who committed suicide. It's a provocative piece but why don't you start at the beginning? I ran across another version which was written by a boy named Mike Kirsh.

Grass Is My Power

Grass is my power; I constantly want.

It maketh me to fly high in sweet pleasures;

It increaseth my sensations.

It restoreth deep awareness;

It guideth me through sounds and colors with complete sensitiviey.

Yea, though I live in the twilight of dependence,

I do fear nothing.

For grass is with me;

The puff of a joint, it comforts me.

Though problems abound in the presence of the living,

More puffs on a joint, the keep me; my mind runneth away.

Surely joy and delight can I follow with marijuana;

And I shall dwell in the hell of my unsatisfied needs forever.

No matter what excuses the users of grass give for their reason to smoke it, I think that last line sums it all up.

Football Starts Playoffs

By Don Marlatt

Football fans this year will be treated to something which only basketball and track fans have experienced before, a playoff to determine the champion Indiana high school football squad.

Indiana will be divided into four geographical districts for each classification.

Schools will be classified every two years according to their male enrollment in grades 10, 11 and 12. The 1973 classification will be based on 1972 enrollment. 1. AAA — schools with male enrollment of 501 and over. 2. AA — schools with male enrollment of 251 to 500. 3. A — schools with male enrollment of 250 and under.

Schools will receive points for each win. Naturally by beating a team of a higher classification than yours, you will receive more points. Rating points are awarded as follows:

Classification	Defeating A
AAA	4
AA	8
A	12
Defeating AA	Defeating AAA
8	12
12	16
16	20

The total number of accumulated points will be divided by 9 when less than 10 season games are played by a school or by 10 when 10 season games are played by a school. The district representative in each class will be the team with the highest point average.

In case of a tie the following five methods will be used to break it:

- If the two teams have played each other, the winner of that game will be the representative.
- The team whose opponents have the highest rating point average will be the representative.
- The team whose opponents have the most wins shall be the representative.
- The team whose opponents have fewer losses will be representative.
- If all else fails there will be a coin flip.

For determining who will be the host school the following plan will be used:

AAA	AAA
Semi-Finals	Finals
Even years--
School farthest north	south
AA+A	AA+A
Semi-finals	Finals
School farthest south	school farthest north

In odd years, like this one, everything will be opposite of even years.

For those of you who are interested in seeing these championship games, semi-final games will be held Saturday, November 10 with finals being held either on a Friday or a Saturday which will be either November 16 or 17.

There is little doubt, that the inclusion of a post-season championship will add much excitement to the high school football season.

SPORTS IN DEPTH

By Robert Shuster

For the past two years the White Sox have been in serious contention for the pennant, but for some reason or another have fallen short of their goal. Whether it has been injuries, lack of a certain type of talent, or just plain bad luck, some thing has always been keeping the Sox out of contention.

This year has been no exception. Dick Allen and Ken Henderson are out for the season with injuries. Carlos May had injury troubles early in the season and is just getting back in the groove. Most of the team has had injury problems throughout the season. This has forced Chuck Tanner to use inexperienced players in place of his starters.

Even though things look bleak, there is some hope. The White Sox are not yet out of the division race. The recent acquisition of Jim Koat from the Twins and a recent hot streak may put Chicago on top.

Bits and Pieces: Whatever the outcome of the Riggs-King match, a lot of money will change hands. ABC paid $750,000 for the television rights, and the winner gets $100,000.

FOOTBALL PREDICTIONS

Since the football season is just starting I will make my predictions for the coming season.

Green Bay Packers
Chicago Bears
Minnesota Vikings
Detroit Lions

Atlanta Falcons
San Francisco 49'ers
Los Angeles Rams
New Orlean Saints

Washington Redskins
Dallas Cowboys
New York Giants
Philadelphia Eagles
St. Louis Cardinals

Pittsburgh Steelers
Cincinnati Bengals

Cleveland Browns
Houston Oilers

Oakland Raiders
Kansas City Chiefs
San Diego Chargers
Denver Broncos

Miami Dolphins
New York Jets
Buffalo Bills
New England Patriots
Baltimore Colts

I will pick the Pittsburgh Steelers to win the Super Bowl!

Rensselaer's cross country team won and lost in their first two meets of the season, both of them against conference teams.

Rensselaer defeated Knox in their first meet of the season on Aug. 27. The Bombers were led by senior Ed Edmonds in 2nd, with juniors Dave Lane and Dave Chesak taking 3rd and 4th in a mad dash for the chute. Joe Reichert and sophomore Jay Phegley rounded out the scoring as Rensselaer took the win.

Rensselaer teams placed 15th and 18th competing in the Portage 2-man relays on Sept. 1. Ed Edmonds & Joe Reichert nudged out the junior duo of Dave Chesak and Dave Lane. Earl Davis and Jay Phegley also competed for Rensselaer.

A strong Winimac team downed the Bombers 21-35 here at Curtis Creek on September 6. Senior Joe Reichert turned in a sterling performance as he took second for Rensselaer, knocking nearly a minute off his seasonal best time. Winimac depth pushed No. 2 man Ed Edmonds back to 5th place, with juniors Dave Chesak and Dave Lane in 8th and 9th. Jay Phegley was 11th, Earl Davis was 15th, and freshman Bruce Bockrath was 17th in his first-ever varsity competition.

Rensselaer is slated to compete in the Highland Invitational tomorrow morning.

Popular Culture

By Joe Kenny

To begin my first column of the new school year, I'd like to give you my policy on what I write in it.

There is none. I have three things that I feature every column (Movies, Books, and TV) and the rest of the stuff is whatever I decide to throw in — jokes, odd bits of news, social comment, preaching, griping, etc. But to get on with it.

Coming to the Palace: 40 Carats is a PG musical. Mediocre. For all you incoming freshman who aren't allowed to go to PG's yet, there's a Walt Disney coming—Song of the South and the Aristocats.

Oklahoma Crude is sort of a western. A strong-willed woman tries to make an oilfield work in the face of impossible odds. Slightly above mediocre.

I'm a vegetarian. Contrary to popular belief, this is neither immoral nor anti-American. It is also my business (or problem, if you choose to view it that way).

Modern scheduling is great! I realize that it takes a lot of extra effort, but this new freedom can open whole new areas of learning (so use your time with care).

Books: You're probably bogged down right now; but for some easy-reading fiction by two great storytellers, read The Cowboy and the Cossack by Clair Huffaker and the Hornblower saga by C. S. Forester (about 10 books—try a few of them).

These folks built a new 20-story building in the middle of downtown New York city. Nothing odd about the first eight floors — they're filled with offices. However, the top 12 floors are campsites — yes, astroturfed campsites, complete with fireplaces and cooking areas (out on the balcony) and sewage hookups for your recreational vehicle. They've got ramps, so you can just pay your fee, drive your Winnebago up to the 14th floor, plug in your toilet, and Voila! You're camping.

Speaking of incredible things, Debbie Nagel, according to the official attendance records, did not miss one minute of school during the four years that she attended RCHS. That rivals most things I read in "Believe it or Not!"

TV Alas! for the vast wasteland. The new season brings more of the same. It is my considered opinion that there are four things worth watching on TV — news, sports, movies, and some specials and documentaries. There are also a few comedies, variety shows, and "dramas" that are occasionally entertaining.

And then there's "Zoom" and "Sesame Street," which are worthwhile, and channel 11 shows plenty of interesting stuff. And "60 Minutes" is good. And some of the CBS comedies have real quality humor. Actually, I suppose there is enough good stuff to keep you occupied.

But then, there are 24 hours in a day and about 250 million television viewers in the United States . . . wasted potential always bugs me.

SENIOR SPOTLIGHT

Kris Anderson, captain of the Varsity cheerleaders, was chosen as one of our outstanding seniors, this issue.

Kris, who has been a cheerleader for the past 8 years is planning on this year being better than the others. She said that although school spirit hasn't been very high the past few years, she thinks this year it will improve. The cheerleaders are hoping to get away from the conventional cheers and to utilize newer ones this year.

Along with the rest of the Varsity squad, Kris attended Vincennes Camp for a week this summer. Although it was a lot of work, they felt it was very helpful and worthwhile.

Other interests included in Kris' schedule are Treasurer of Sunshine, Future Nurses of America, GAA (she participates in volleyball, basketball and bowling) and last year she was a member of the French club.

Kris is planning on attending Indiana University next fall.
